

Year in Reflection

This week, millions across the world are commemorating the end of the Jewish year and turn their hopeful sights to the future.

We at the ZACHOR Holocaust Remembrance Foundation believe that a better and more peaceful world is possible. The first step to building that better world is to teach our children to learn from lessons the Holocaust taught us: to live with tolerance and peace. This is the mission that guided us and will continue to guide us for years to come.

This past year brought us many meaningful moments and celebrations of growth. Because of your continued support, our community saw the expansion of ZACHOR's educational services through various outreach platforms. We bolstered our online presence and added many speaking engagements to an already busy year for our founder, Ben Lesser, and the organization.

- We distributed nearly 250,000 ZACHOR lapel pins providing an enduring token for individuals to remember the lessons of the Holocaust and to pass forward what they have learned. These pins not only inspire future generations to share their stories of listening to a Survivor speak, but also the power lessons that came from it. These pins serve as a reminder ... and a symbol TO NEVER FORGET.
- We sent one remarkable young woman on a journey to the March of the Living - something she will never forget. We also sent school teachers abroad to expand their Holocaust studies, enabling them to return to the classrooms empowered and educated, inspiring young students to carry on Survivors stories and make sure the world remembers this important lesson: NEVER AGAIN.
- Ben spoke around the world at more than 20 events, sharing his important message and helping to ensure the world never forgets the atrocities of the Holocaust and the ramifications of living in a world that bullies and hates.
- We even expanded I-SHOUT-OUT, our online movement that encourages people around the world to advocate for change by taking a stand and speaking UP and OUT against intolerance, injustice, racism, bullying and more.

But, the pins, the journeys, the education, the speaking engagements, the online campaign, can't continue without YOU. As a small organization largely funded directly from our founder, Ben Lesser, we rely on generous donations to help power ZACHOR. Our programs are critically dependent on donations. Please help us today with your tax-deductible donation. Pledge your gift today.

Education and remembrance go hand-in-hand so we can ensure we never forget. Holocaust Survivors, Generations thereof and ZACHOR Holocaust Remembrance Foundation share the same goal: to Remember.

With Remembrance, we must engage, create meaningful dialog and take action. We cannot do this alone. We need your help. Click here to learn more.
